REMAINING FAITHFUL TO A DREAM

Amana Colonies

The history of the Amana Colonies, a National Historic Landmark and one of America's longest-lived communal societies, begins in 1714 in the villages of Germany and continues today in Eastern Iowa.

In turbulent 18th century Germany, in the midst of a religious movement called Pietism, two men, Eberhard L. Gruber and Johann F. Rock, advocated faith renewal through reflection, prayer and Bible study. Their belief, one shared by other Pietists, was that God, through the Holy Spirit, would inspire individuals to speak. This gift of inspiration, or prophecy, was the basis for a group that began meeting in 1714 and became known as the Community of True Inspiration. Though the Inspirationists sought to avoid conflict, they were persecuted for their beliefs. Eventually the Inspirationists found refuge on several estates in central Germany, including the 13th century Ronneburg castle.

SEEKING FREEDOM

Persecution and economic depression in Germany forced the community to search for a new home. Led by Christian Metz, they sought religious freedom in America and left Germany in 1843-44. Community members pooled their resources and purchased 5,000 acres near Buffalo, New York. By working cooperatively and sharing their property, the community, then numbering 1,200 people, was able to carve out a relatively comfortable living. They called their community the Ebenezer Society and adopted a constitution that formalized their communal way of life.

When the growing community needed more farmland, the Inspirationists looked west where attractively priced land was available. One valley on the Iowa River seemed particularly promising with fertile soil, stone, wood and water enough to build the community of their dreams.

REMAINING TRUE

In 1855 they arrived in Iowa. After an inspired testimony commanded the people to call their village "Bleibtreu" or "remain faithful", the leaders chose the name Amana from the Song of Solomon 4:8. Amana means to "remain true." Six villages were established, a mile or two apart, across a river valley tract of some 26,000 acres - Amana, East Amana, West Amana, South Amana, High Amana and Middle Amana. The village of Homestead was added in 1861, giving the Colonies access to the railroad.

COMMUNAL LIFE

In the seven villages, residents received housing, medical care, meals, all household necessities, and schooling for their children. Property and resources were shared. Men and women were assigned jobs by their village council of brethren. No one received a wage. No one needed one.

Called to work before dawn by the gentle tolling of the bell in the village tower, the unhurried routine of life in old Amana was paced very differently than today. Farming and the production of wool and calico supported the community. Village enterprises, everything from clock making to brewing, were vital. Well-crafted products became a hallmark of the Amanas. Craftsmen took pride in their work as a testament of both their faith and community spirit. Amana churches, located in the center of each village, built of brick or stone, have no stained-glass windows, no steeple or spire, and reflect the ethos of simplicity and humility. Inspirationists attended worship services 11 times a week; their quiet worship punctuating the days.

Over 50 communal kitchens provided three daily meals, a mid-morning and a mid-afternoon snack to all Colonists. These kitchens were operated by the women of the Colony. They were well supplied by the village smokehouse, bakery, ice house and dairy, by huge gardens, orchards and vineyards maintained by the villagers. Children attended school, six days a week, year-round until the age of 14. Boys were assigned jobs on the farm or in the craft shops, while girls were assigned to a communal kitchen or garden. A few boys were sent to college for training as teachers, doctors and dentists.

In 1932, amidst America's Great Depression, Amana set aside its communal way of life. A ruinous farm market and changes in the rural economy contributed, but what finally propelled the change was a strong desire among the residents to maintain their community. By 1932, the communal way of life was seen as a barrier to achieving individual goals, so rather than leave or watch their children leave, they changed. They established the Amana Society, Inc. a profit-sharing corporation to manage the farmland, the mills and the larger enterprises. Private enterprise was encouraged. The Amana Church was maintained.

AMANA COLONIES TODAY

Today the seven villages of the Amana Colonies represent an American dream come true; a thriving community founded by religious faith and community spirit. Declared a National Historic Landmark in 1965, the Amana Colonies attract thousands of visitors annually all of whom enjoy a place where the past is cherished and where hospitality is a way of life. Evocative of another age, the streets of the Amana Colonies with their historic brick, stone, and clapboard homes, their flower and vegetable gardens, their lanterns and walkways recall an Amana of yesterday. A vibrant community, celebrating both its past and its future, is here today for you to experience.

COMMUNAL DINNERS

EXPERIENCE A MEAL IN THE ONLY REMAINING COMMUNAL KITCHEN

Communal Kitchen Museum –
1003 26th Ave., Middle Amana
319-622-3567 ·
amanaheritage@southslope.net

How does Hühnersoße and Kartoffelklöße sound? How about gekochtes Rindfleisch and Spinat? We serve the best Mattekuchen this side of Frankfurt. Historically, over fifty communal kitchens provided meals to hungry members of Amana's communal society. The last meal was served on April 11, 1932.

The Amana Heritage Society will offer a series of unique Communal Dining Experiences at the Communal Kitchen Museum in Middle Amana. Join us each month from April through September for an authentic communal meal as it was prepared and eaten during communal times in the Amana Colonies.

Learn about Amana's traditions and food culture through this one-of-a-kind dining experience. Diners gain insight how village life worked over a century ago. Middle Amana boasts dozens of historic homes built between 1862 and 1875.

Learn where and how the villagers worked, ate, and worshipped.

Menus and registration information are available online at amanaheritage.org. Call the Amana Heritage Museum for general questions at 319-622-3567.

Online reservations and prepayment are required and seating is limited to 24 guests. Groups of 20 or more may schedule their own time, day, and menu.

ART & HANDCRAFTED WORKS

Talent

Handcrafts have been part of the Amana lifestyle since the communal era. Admire galleries, museums, and special live demonstrations.

Currently the Colonies are home to many artists and craftspeople. In addition to fine furniture, you'll find everything from paintings to pottery, photography to glasswork, and copper creations to wood sculpture. Local traditional folk arts and crafts can be found throughout the Amana Colonies alongside modern art. Wander our shops and find unique items for your home or a special gift.

The Amana Colonies are known for its history, culture, food, and shopping. We invite you to look beyond our architecture and tidy streets to take in our natural beauty as well!

Be sure to take time to drive our 16 mile loop to enjoy all the beauty of the Amana Colonies and our section of the Iowa River Valley.

Amana RV Park & Events Center

Amana Nature Trail

Kayaking on Iowa River

CAMPING

The Amana RV Park & Event Center is a perfect spot to call home while visiting the Seven Villages. Located along beautiful Price Creek, the Amana RV Park has full or partial hookups, showers, WiFi, on site laundry and dump stations. The 450 RV and tent sites, onsite convenience store, and three climate-controlled facilities for meetings and events are all open April-October.

Middle Amana Park, also operated by the Amana RV Park & Event Center, offers self-registration, electrical hookup, and fresh water in a quiet and lush setting. A public restroom with showers is located at Middle Amana Park along with a pavilion and open grass spaces for relaxing and playing.

HIKING & WILDLIFE

For nature lovers, meander the Kolonieweg (Colony Way) Trail circling the Lily Lake. It offers great opportunities to spot a changing and large variety of birds and wildlife. Eagles are common in the spring, as are pelicans. Canada geese and trumpeter swans are in the area year-round.

Or try the Amana Colonies Nature Trail located near the village of Homestead at the junction of Highways 6 and 151. It features 3 different trails (the longest being 3 miles) and is open most of the year, except during deer hunting season. It's perfect for hiking and in the winter cross-country skiing. The Trail winds through the timber to a bluff overlooking the Iowa River. Expect to see a variety of wildflowers, shrubs and hardwood trees; along with a large number of birds including wild turkey and quite a few deer.

From an archaeological standpoint, there are three Indian burial mounds just off the trail that date back about 1,000 years. The river below is the location of an Indian fish weir that is made of rocks. It was used to trap fish during the shallow times of the river. Sadly, due to the change in course of the river, it is no longer visible. In 2018, a grant from the State Historical Society of Iowa Historical Resource Development Program funded a survey of the area to locate the fish weir. It determined the weir to be intact but buried under about 8 feet of silt and sand.

WATER SPORTS

The Iowa River winds itself through the length of the Amana Colonies and provides a very pleasant place to fish or paddle. Bring your canoe or kayak, and drop in upstream near South Amana. Float or paddle your way to Homestead and the Highway 151 bridge where you'll find a rustic spot to end your journey. Along the way you might even get out at one of the sand bars during low water for a little sun tanning.

Paddle the Iowa is a community event in August offering a free shuttle between South Amana and Homestead so you can drop your kayaks or canoes off in South and park your vehicles in Homestead from 9 a.m. - 11 a.m. This event is self-guided and requires each person to wear a life jacket.

If you have your fishing gear and a license, drop a line into the river. Catfish and an occasional walleye might take the bait. Check the water level before you come as the Coralville Dam and rain upstream can make the river rise very quickly and can create a swift current at times.

GOLF

The Amana Colonies Golf Club is a championship golf course carved out of 500 acres of white oak timber, just north of Middle Amana. The 18-hole course, with views of the Lily Lake, consistently ranks as the top Iowa golf course by Golf Digest and Golf Magazine. The Amana Colonies Golf Club can also host events. For information visit their website amanagolf.com.

BIKING

There are several ways to enjoy the Amana Colonies by pedal power. Join cyclists from all over for the Bike Ride Across Iowa County (BRIC) event in August. This 28-mile ride through the northeast portion of Iowa County stops at several fun places in the Amana Colonies. Or simply find your own path through the bike lanes in Amana or on the other 20 miles of bike routes marked on area roads.

For a relaxing family friendly ride, try the Kolonieweg (Colony Way) Trail. It is a 3-mile hard surface trail connecting Amana and Middle Amana. It circles Lily Lake, which blooms from July to August with yellow lotus lily flowers, and provides access to many favorite tourist destinations in the Amana Colonies.

For a more vigorous ride, our Gravel Bike Routes are ready for use. The route begins in Middle Amana, then heads north into the timberland past the golf club. This ride offers two options, one that is a shorter ride from Middle Amana to High Amana and a longer ride that extends to West Amana.

The longer ride offers some changes in elevation so be ready to exhort some energy. While on the gravel routes, the riders will experience historical points of interest in Middle Amana, High Amana, and West Amana.

BRIC

Kolonieweg (Colony Way) Trail

This ride takes you past the area that inspired Grant Wood to create his painting entitled "Young Corn".
